

Rainbow Station: Building the Future One Child at a Time

Rainbow Station's early childhood education programs and onsite infirmary meet the needs of the entire family. We provide a proprietary educational curriculum for children from infants up to age 14—and lots of support for parents.

Private Kindergarten, Nursery School and Preschool

Investing in high-quality early education sets the stage for children's future educational successes.

When you enroll your child in Rainbow Station's preschool or private kindergarten programs, he will learn through age-appropriate curriculums that conform to Virginia Standards of Learning. Professional teachers provide a stimulating, hands-on environment that encourages creativity and exploration.

Rainbow Station also offers full and part-time nursery school. We focus on your child's total development through learning experiences and exposure to language, music and sensory stimulation. With low child-teacher ratios, you know your child will receive lots of individualized attention.

The Get Well Place

Emergency backup care answers the question: what does a working parent do when he or she can't stay home with a child who has a cold, the chicken pox or some other common childhood illness?

The next time your little one wakes up feeling under the weather and you can't miss work, relax! The Get Well Place at Rainbow Station can help.

The Get Well Place is an onsite but separate infirmary where mildly sick children can be left in the care of a full-time registered nurse. Children are separated according to their symptoms. The Get Well Place can serve 20 children daily (up to age 14) on a first-come, first-served basis.

Recreation Programs for School-Age Children

Providing care for school-age children in the afternoons can be challenging. At that age, they begin to crave their independence, but still require supervision in a safe environment.

Hundreds of children participate in Rainbow Stations' after-school and summer recreation program called The Village, which is located in a separate building on each of our campuses.

In The Village, students are encouraged to explore their own interests through numerous specialty areas, such as art, science, theater or the library. Each learning center provides opportunities for students to engage and participate in hands-on activities. They can also burn off pent up energy from the school day on the playground or in the gymnasium. Of course, during the school year, homework is a priority in The Village and our teachers will help your student complete her assignments every afternoon.

When you choose Rainbow Station for your child's education, you can be confident you've made a sound decision. In fact, last year the Better Business Bureau recognized Rainbow Station for business ethics and integrity. Rainbow Station has been serving families in Richmond since 1989. We've just opened our newest location in the Wyndham community.

Stop by any of our schools for a personal tour and see for yourself how Rainbow Station is building the future one child at a time!
